Current Comment

By R. H. K.

The opinions (if any) expressed herein, are not necessarily those of The Campbell Press.

A well-known Campbell man, member of the National Rifle association (an organization sponsored by the War department and financed in part by the federal government) recently ran into difficulties when he attempted to secure a renewal of his pistol permit — a license issued by the sheriff of the county (any county). Naturally, this burned him up.

And when, a short time later, he received a pamphlet from the National Rifle association, pointing out the really serious dangers which result from well-meaning attempts to disarm the law-abiding citizen — a danger which has been partially responsible for the defeat—at the hands of totalitarian states—of at least one European nation, he brought that pamphlet to your reporter.

Now, as some of you may recollect, this writer has, from time to time in years past, taken well-meaning legislators to task because they have favored laws designed to disarm the citizen. And this pamphlet was more or less a repetition of the association's propaganda to inform its members—and any one else who will listen—of the true state of affairs. So it again becomes my pleasure to help throw the hooks into any individual or organization whose purpose it is to disarm the ordinary, law-abiding citizen of the United States.

It is a matter of common knowledge—at least to the nation's shooters—that while the constitution of the United States provides that "the right of the citizen to own and bear arms shall not be infringed" there are a number of laws (notably the infamous Sullivan law of New York state, which makes it a felony for a citizen even to own a pistol—while the New York thug is usually pretty well armed) which are more or less effective in disarming the citizen.

More than anything that I can say, however, in the present unfortunate situation surrounding the potential defenders of the nation, are the findings of the National Rifle association in regard to the circumstances which contributed, abroad, to the unprecedented success of the dictators and the downfall of world powers mentioned in the following paragraphs, cribbed in their entirety from the pamphlet, "Let's Fight This Fifth Column Trap," issued by the National Rifle association:

Italy. As a result of Government "regulation" the ordinary citizen of Italy knows nothing about small arms. How simple then was Mussolini's task of taking and maintaining control of the Government with the aid of a "strong arm" organization which dared to arm despite the law!

Germany. Government registration and regulation of firearms in Germany was a part of the plan to limit hunt-

Kiwanians Are Poisoned by Food At Luncheon

A series of illnesses, more or less acute, afflicted members of the Kiwanis club a few hours after their noon luncheon Tuesday. The cases were diagnosed as food poisoning and investigation was under way to determine, if possible, the source of the infection.

Sleuthing among members as to what they had or had not eaten, seemed to center the source of trouble as probably the meat dish.

So far as learned the only two who seemed to have entirely escaped ill effects are Reverends Brunswick and Bennett, one of whom did not partake of that certain dish and the other who seemed to be immune.

Cameron Hinman Is New Arrival

Friends of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Townsend of North Union avenue, and of their daughter Ruth, who several years ago became the bride of J. Roderick Hinman of Ettersburg, Humboldt county, are happy over the arrival of Cameron Dinsmore Hinman, born Nov. 20 at Santa Rosa General hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. Hinman. The young man's paternal grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Hinman of Santa Rosa. Mrs. Townsend, who went north for the happy event, will return with greetings to her daughter's many friends in this community, and those friends even now are in receipt of clever announcements chronicling the arrival of the young Scotsman.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark E. Purmort spent the week-end with his nephew in Manteca.

Local Dehydrator Completes Season With Record Run

The Prune and Apricot Growers association plant No. 1 closed for the season yesterday (Wednesday) completing thirteen and one-half weeks of actual grading. Ninety-two women and 80 men were hired daily during the season and the highest payroll per week of the plant alone is $2225.00.

The payroll of the Campbell Cooperative Dehydrator for the season averaged $1500.00 per week with between 35 and 40 steadily employed. According to Frank Steindorf, Jr., central representative and director of the association, 4600 green tons of prunes were dried in about eight weeks. This is the largest run so far in the dehydrator due mostly to the greater membership sign-up.

Since the dehydrator was first started every years sees new property and new buildings added to the original unit. The latest purchase is the property across from the first unit extending almost to the Campbell Water company building. Between seven and eight acres of land and buildings now belong to the plant.

Early Resident of Cambrian District Passes Away

Funeral services were held this morning from the Ward Undertaking parlors for Mrs. Sarah A. Farrell, of San Jose.

Mrs. Farrell, a native of Alabama was 86 years old, and in earlier days was a resident in the Cambrian district where she is remembered by the older generation.

Her husband passed away several years ago, and surviving relatives are cousins and nieces.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Bouton and two children and Miss Rachel Spradling all of Palo Alto spent Thanksgiving at the C. B. Field home. Miss Spradling stayed over and will return this Saturday.

Last Rites For Eustace Parsons Held Monday

Eustace Robert Parsons, 87, husband of Emma D. Parsons and stepfather of Mrs. Viola Carboni, passed away at his home in Campbell, Nov. 22 and was laid to rest in the Santa Clara City cemetery, Monday.

Parsons was born in London, England where two sisters, Mrs. Katherine Kent and Lillian Parsons are still living.

Although not widely known here where he lived a retired life since his return nine years ago, Mr. Parson's life had been one of wide experience and varied adventure.

In 1879 while farming in South Africa he fought the Zulusand had a collection of shields and spears as mementos.

For several years he served as purser on a ship sailing between London and Panama and then took up residence in South America.

Coming to Colorado he bought a 1400 acre ranch and set out 50 acres to fruit trees the first in that region. People came from all about Denver to see this new sight. Besides raising cattle he was associated with the editorship of a farm journal and continued writing until a short time ago.

In 1912 he came to Campbell for a few years, then moved south returning here where he lived with his wife in an attractive cottage adjacent to the Carboni home.

Funeral Rites For Mrs. Sturtevant Held Tuesday

The death Sunday of Mrs. Ada Sturtevant, widow of W. D. Sturtevant, was a shock to her friends, many of whom had not learned of her illness.

Mrs. Sturtevant was born in Joliet, Ill., but came to California as a young woman, and after residing in San Jose for a short time moved to Campbell some thirty years ago.

After her marriage to Mr. Sturtevant they built a home and a cottage on Johnson avenue, where her nephew, Emsley Whistler and wife have also made their home. This nephew was brought up from childhood by his aunt and has taken the place of a son.

Other surviving relatives are a sister Mrs. Nellie J. McCormick and a niece, Mrs. Hazel Martin of Gilroy, and other nieces and nephews.

Deceased was a member of the Congregational Guild and of the Country Woman's club from both of which she will be missed, for although of a quiet retiring nature, was faithful to her obligations.

Rev. J. H. Bennett conducted funeral services Tuesday afternoon from the Amos O. Williams chapel and burial was in Oak Hill Memorial park.

SHOP EARLY AND AT HOME!

Christmastide season is virtually here, bringing with it this year no lack of good cheer.

Christmas shopping wallets promise to be fatter this Yuletide than in any year since 1929, with national income tipping $75 billion for 1940. Christmas savings funds in California are plumper by at least $2 million more than last year. It's not without good reason, then, that store windows are sparkling with the gay trappings of the season and that wreaths of holly and fir once more brighten the air.

The year's greatest shopping holiday is here. Do your buying early—do it at home! Remember that the stores in your community have been preparing for months to offer you a wealth of distinctive bargains in price and in value. And remember, too, that it is the stores of your community whose taxes and payrolls, and rent bills, help your community thrive and grow. They deserve your support. You will find on the well stocked shelves of your local merchants goods as attractive and desirable, in variety and value, as any to be found anywhere.

Do you want to spread Christmas cheer? Then shop early, and shop at home! Now's the time to begin!

LEWIS STEPS DOWN

True to his pre-election promise John L. Lewis stepped down from his post as president of the C. I. O.

In his resignation speech at Atlantic City, N. J., he took special pains to admonish unions "to cease their damnable bickerings."

Mr. Lewis' advice was sound. So, too, was his prophetic warning that continued internal strife might well bring misfortune to the warring unions themselves. In this critical hour, when the nation's ability to arm itself will be tested by its productive efficiency, the split within Labor's ranks endangers both Labor and the progress of rearmament. This division of organized workers has not come about, nor continued, because Tome Jones who wears C. I. O. button, dislikes John Smith, who wears an A. F. of L. button. The split has come from the top.

Today both William Green and John L. Lewis are on record as being wholeheartedly pledged to the cause of Labor unity. In speeches made on the same day to their respective conventions, each leader, however, went out of his way to level a verbal barrage against the other. Such continued feuding will not convince followers nor the public of their good faith.

The new commander of the C. I. O. has the opportunity to start afresh. He can bring to any round table unity conferences a new determination, free of lordly ambition, to breach the gap which has now prevailed for five years between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O.

If labor leadership cannot quench the fires of this futile feud, it is almost certain that public and government pressure will proceed to do so of their own accord and of necessity.

A MAN FROM THE COAST

Confirmation by the Senate of a representative from New Mexico as a member of the Maritime Commission, though expected, again calls attention to the need of west coast representation on that commission.

Because of political expediency or other reasons, Pacific coast states have not yet won the recognition they are entitled to. The maritims industry plays a large part in the economic life of the states which flank the Pacific. On this coast are several of the nation's greatest ports. The defense program has restored life to Pacific coast shipyards, with California alone embarking on a $250 million order for naval fighting craft in addition to the constduction of new vessels for the merchant marine.

All these factors attest he importance of maritime enterprises to Far Western states, and the need of men on the Maritime Commission from this area thoroughly familiar with the problems of these enterprises. California members of Congress should make it their job to work for such representation when future vacancies occur.

HALL OF FAME

He died penniless in a Bowery rooming house. That was 76 years ago.

Last week New York University elected him to a place among the immortals in its hall of fame.

But Stephen Collins Foster nominated himself to his own hall of fame 88 years ago, 12 years before his death, when he declared his intention "to establish my name as the best Ethiopian-song writer." "Ethiopian," in song writers' jargon, meant Negro-minstrel music. He succeeded in his ambition so amazingly and completely that it would probably be impossible to find an American today who doesn't know "My Old Kentucky Home," "Massa's in The Cold, Cold Ground," "Swanee River" and "Old Black Joe"—to name but four of Foster's songs.

It is fitting that a great university should honor Foster's memory. Yet as long as America lasts, those grand old songs will be sung, by generation after generation of school children and in the firelight of millions of homes—and in the singing lives the deathless fame that Stephen Foster sought and so magnificiently won.

WINGS FOR DEFENSE

Though maximum production of defense work in many fields will not be reached for two and three years, it is worth noting that in one field of defense— aviation — acceleration of output has been hearteningly conspicuous by its presence. Where the value of monthly plane deliveries averaged $30 million earlier in the year, in recent months the average has risen to $55 million. By January, it is expected to reach $80 million and continue its upward climb. Here is defense, not on order, but in action!

DRAFT EXEMPTION

In a week which has seen one pastor jailed for refusing to register for conscription, students of a theological seminary sent to prison for likewise refusing, and a die-hard campaign begun to repeal the aforesaid law, only Arthur Morel, New Hampshire contractor has provided the surefire method of avoiding the draft. He announces the birth of his 25th child. Of that number 22 are living. You can't beat 22 airtight excuses!

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

Taking time by the forelock a notable galaxy of political peers of the realm, each with a desire to hang up his hat in the Governor's Mansion at Sacramento, has started setting the stage for California's great gubernatorial drama of 1942.

Although actual campaigning isn't scheduled to begin for at least another twelvemonth, leading candidates, in both major parties, already are maneuvering and jockeying for position, with one or two of the aspirants openly building their organizations.

Senator "Bob" Kenny of Los Angeles, for example, is an avowed candidate for the Democratic nomination and is busily at work trying to rally some of the Bourbon legislators behind his banner so that he can fire the first volleys of his campaign during the forthcoming session of the Legislature.

In addition to Governor Olson, who may wish to succeed himself, Senator Kenny is likely to collide head on with the ambitions of John Dockweiler, the newly elected Los Angeles County district attorney, and the aspirations of Speaker of the Assembly Gordon Garland, who has gained considerable prestige as one of the leaders of the legislative economy bloc.

Other possible Democratic contenders include versatile George Creel, who was President Wilson's ace propagandist during the World War; Collector of Internal Revenue Clifford C. Anglim, one of the most brilliant orators of the Bourbon brigade; Melvyn Douglas, the screen star and husband of beauteous Helen Gahagan; Secretary of State Paul Peek, lieutenant Governor Ellis Patterson and sundry others.

The rejuvenated Republican party, brimming with enthusiasm as a result of the tremendous vote polled by its presidential candidate, Wendell Willkie, also has a host of prospective candidates, including Senator Jerrold L. Seawell of Roseville, the President Pro Tem of the State Senate, who is recognized as a leading contender.

Other top-flight names in the G. O.P. lineup, all being given consideration in the gubernatorial revue, include Paul Smith, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle; Phillip Bancroft, the fighting farmer from Contra Costa county; Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles; Attoreny General Earl Warren; newly-elected Congressman Tom Rolph of San Francisco, brother of the late Governor "Sunny Jim" Rolph; Justus Craemer of Orange, a member of the State Railroad commission and State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson.

An interesting sidelight on the gathering campaign is the fact that Wendell Willkie, titular head of the Republican Party nationally, plans to come to California shortly and will confer with G. O. P. leaders here regarding the approaching governorship battle Mr. Willkie has expressed the opinion, privately, that California can elect a Republican Governor in 1942. All of which adds tone to the drama now in the making!

Betty Barclay's Food Facts

No. 4 Milk

Milk is recognized as the most nearly complete and broadly nutritious of all foods. So rich is it in the nutritive values which supply the daily needs of the body that physicians and recognized nutritionists consider milk the basic food of a well constructed diet.

For example, milk furnishes a type of protein of high biological value. It is abundant in carbohydrate and fat. It is one of the best sources of two most important mineral elements, calcium and phosphorus, needed for growth and maintenance of bones and teeth. It is one of the best sources of vitamins A and G (known as B_2), which are so vital to growth and good nutrition. It is also a good source of vitamin B_1.

Authorities unite in recommending for normal children about a quart of milk each day. For adults they advise a pint a day.

We think of milk as a liquid food. But it is really a solid food because when acted upon by the gastric juice of the stomach it forms rather large curds which are sometimes quite difficult to digest.

There are a number of ways to obtain the food values of milk yet have softer, more readily digestible curds in the stomach — such as the use of condensed milk, homogenized milk, and boiled milk.

One of the oldest and best-accepted methods is through the addition of rennet, which in its own way of forming milk curds. Fortunately this of the easiest be powder and rennet tablets are available almost everywhere — and are very inexpensive. By using them you can make milk into delicious rennet - custard desserts which tempt both children and adults to take more milk.

Apricot Presto Rennet-Custard

½ pound dried apricots
1 cup water
½ cup sugar
1 pint milk (not canned or soft curd)
1 package chocolate rennet powder
½ pint whipping cream
½ pound sweet wafers, crushed

Wash apricots well and soak overnight in cold water. Simmer in same water until soft, remove from fire, and put through puree sieve. Stir in sugar and cool. Warm milk slowly, stirring constantly. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When COMFORTABLY WARM, (120° F.) not hot, remove at once from stove. Stir rennet powder into milk briskly until dissolved — not over one minute. Pour at once, while still liquid, into sherbet glasses, filling to about ¾ inch from top. Do not move until firm — about 10 minutes. Chill in ice box. When ready to serve add cream or water to apricot puree, if necessary, until it will spread easily. Spread lightly over tops of rennet-custards to a depth of ¼ to ½ inch. Whip cream until stiff and heap lightly over puree, covering surface. Sprinkle with a generous amount of sweet wafer crumbs. Chill until ready to Yield: 6 to 8 desserts.

ing to the nobility and dated back to the days of the crossbow and wheel-lock. The resultant general disarmament of the common people made it easy for Hitler's "Storm Troopers" to take and hold control of Germany.

France. For months prior to the declaration of war the unity of the French nation was torn apart by riots and street fighting caused by subversive groups who drew arms from concealed stores while the law-abiding Frenchman, disarmed by firearms laws, vainly hoped for police protection. Then, when War came, the task of the German parachute troops, motorcyclists and sympathizers behind the lines was a simple matter of cowing the unarmed French populace.

Great Britain. For many years the restrictive firearms laws in England have been held up to us as a model for America to copy. For many years these laws, even though intelligently enforced by a non-political police, have operated to discourage gun ownership by the average British citizen. For many years the resulting lack of a market for guns and ammunition has acted to dry up the commercial arms and ammunition manufacturing facilities of Britain:

ENGLAND REGRETS ITS GUN RESTRICTIONS

So today, fighting for its life, England turns to "lawless" America and appeals to American sportsmen for the donation of revolvers and pistols, sporting rifles and shotguns to be issued to the disarmed British citizen to keep the foreign invader and the local criminal away from British homes.

So today, England appeals to that small portion of its citizens which has been allowed by the police to possess .22 rifles for rifles to be used by the Army in the basic training of conscripts who have never in their lives had a chance to own or learn to shoot even a .22!

So today, England must depend on American commercial ammunition factories and the long, hazardous trans-atlantic haul, for millions of rounds of small arms ammunition to overcome the deficiency in its own commercial ammunition plant facilities!

So today, British authorities say "one of the greatest difficulties with which home guard rifle instructors have to contend" is the total ignorance of recruits concerning the most fundamental rules of gun safety and gun handling!

Does such a situation point to England's firearms laws as a model for America to follow "for the benefit of our National Defense" or "to combat Fifth Column activities"? Or does this pitiful picture of a great nation fighting a great fight under self-imposed handicaps against a ruthless enemy clearly point to the devilish ingenuity of a propaganda campaign aimed at softening America for the kill?

Sportsmen of America, fight this Fifth Column trap! Millions of your fellow citizens are as disarmed, as gun-ignorant, as those peoples who have helplessly watched the bloody advance of the dictators "strong arm squad" or who now fumble with unfamiliar triggers in a gallant last stand on the very doorsteps of their homes.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

California, it so happens, produces more Christmas dinners—or at least more of the savory ingredients which go into Christmas dinners—than any other state or area on the face of the globe.

In fact, if Mrs. America were denied the help of the California farmer at Christmas time, she would be hard put to it to fill the void.

California will provide more turkeys for American tables this Yuletide season than any other state in the union.

California, too, will provide millions of roast chickens; millions of fried chickens; millions of eggs for millions of cakes; raisins for the puddings; oranges and walnuts and almonds for Christmas stockings in millions of households.

In most homes, the asparagus tips for the salads, the lettuce and the tomatoes—or perhaps the halves of avocados—will have come from California. And the preserved and spiced fruits, which add the final festive touch to a sumptuous Christmas feast—they, too, will have come from California, in all probability.

And California farmers, right about now, are hard at work preparing the fixings for tens of millions of American dinners that will make Christmas day this year a memorable occasion.

This story is written, not simply to remind California farmers of their important role in holiday festivities, but also to reassure the nation that there will be no shortage of Christmas delicacies on Dec. 25, even though imported foods are running low and may not be available.

From New York comes a news dispatch that there's only enough caviar in the United States to last until Christmas.

And supplies of pate de fois gras are practically exhausted.

Olive oils, imported cheeses and chestnuts and other luxury items from foreign lands are also apt to be costly, if obtainable.

But happily, America is not dependent on imports from war-torn Europs.

This nation, which loves its plain American foods, has plenty of beans—and plenty of pork—for American pork and beans. It has turkeys and cranberries and pumpkins in bumper quantities. It has sweet corn, quick frozen so that it will taste fresh all winter. Due to California's Imperial Valley and other warm belts, it has fresh vegetables when the snows are flying back in the middle west and New England. It has glaced apricots and prunes; watermelon rind preserves; fancy cheeses which would make even the Swiss envious; syrup and buckwheat for cakes.

When it comes to food, this nation — our America — has everything.

There's only one problem—and that's to see that all Americans have the money with which to buy it. Our only real problem in this country is to achieve domestic peace, as we have peace with other nations, so that men of all creeds and classes can find work again—and security at their own firesides.

America need not worry, as it approaches the Yuletide season, because caviar and goose liver paste are running short. It need not be too disturbed for lack of Italian olive oils, or Swiss cheese, for really American cheese can't be improved upon — and American butter is an improvement upon the finest olive oils from Italy.

During the Yuletide season, however, America does need to give thought to how its bounty can be spread among all its people. California can supply more delicacies for holiday banquets than all foreign lands combined. America just needs work—and that's the job all America should buckle down to. We have conquered production; we now need only learn to conquer distribution. We need only learn to live together!
